Understanding Jim Crow
Using Racist Memorabilia to Teach Tolerance and Promote Social Justice

DAVID PILGRIM • FOREWORD BY HENRY LOUIS GATES JR.

FOR MANY PEOPLE, especially those who came of age after landmark civil rights legislation was passed, it is difficult to understand what it was like to be an African American living under Jim Crow segregation in the United States. Most young people have little or no knowledge about restrictive covenants, literacy tests, poll taxes, lynchings, and other oppressive features of the Jim Crow racial hierarchy.

Fully illustrated, Understanding Jim Crow introduces readers to the Jim Crow Museum of Racist Memorabilia, a collection of more than ten thousand contemptible collectibles that are used to engage visitors in intense and intelligent discussions about race, race relations, and racism. The items are offensive. They were meant to be offensive. The items in the Jim Crow Museum served to dehumanize blacks and legitimized patterns of prejudice, discrimination, and segregation. Many people are apprehensive discussing race relations, especially in settings where their ideas are challenged. The museum and this book exist to help us overcome our collective trepidation and reluctance to talk about race.

David Pilgrim is a professor, orator, and human rights activist. He is best known as the founder and curator of the Jim Crow Museum at Ferris State University, which uses objects of intolerance to teach about race, race relations, and racism.

One of the most important contributions to the study of American history that I have ever experienced.
— HENRY LOUIS GATES JR., director of the W.E.B. Du Bois Institute for African American Research

This was a horrific time in our history, but it needs to be taught and seen and heard. This is very well done, very well done.
— MALAAK SHABAZZ, daughter of Malcolm X and Betty Shabazz

America’s shameful past told through its contemptible collectibles
Ginger Goodwin
A Worker’s Friend

LAURA ELLYN

Ellyn’s personal reflections are insightful and thought-provoking, yet she leaves room for the reader to grapple with the challenging, contradictory, and vital lessons to be drawn from Goodwin’s life. Equally important are the questions she raises about community and contemporary resistance. The result is an accessible, deeply moving, and inspiring book.

– MARK LEIER, Department of History, Simon Fraser University, author of Bakunin: The Creative Passion, and Rebel Life: The Life and Times of Robert Gosden, Revolutionary, Mystic, Labour Spy

WITH BRIGHT, STRONG imagery, Ginger Goodwin presents the story of labour activist and martyr Albert “Ginger” Goodwin. This accessible and thoughtful graphic history explores Goodwin’s life, work, and death in the mining communities of Cumberland and Trail, British Columbia. Drawing on local history, and exploring the ways the history of labour organizing affects contemporary movements, Ginger Goodwin is a story that needs to be shared.

Laura Ellyn offers a fresh personal interpretation of the life of labour socialist Ginger Goodwin and his mysterious death in 1918. It’s heartening to see a new generation and a new medium explore this old Canadian story. Laura Ellyn’s book will delight readers interested in labour activism, World War I, or Vancouver Island’s industrial past.

– SUSAN MAYSE, author of Ginger: The Life and Death of Albert Goodwin

Laura Ellyn is a writer and illustrator who lives in Montreal, Quebec. She studied Women’s Studies and Fine Arts at Concordia University. Her work has previously been published in Bitch, Briarpatch, and the Vancouver Review, as well as in the Indie Ladies Anthology and Indie Comics Quarterly.

A vigorous takedown of the “sharing economy”

What’s Yours is Mine
Against the Sharing Economy
TOM SLEE

THE NEWS IS FULL of their names, supposedly the vanguard of a rethinking of capitalism. Lyft, Airbnb, Taskrabbit, Uber, and many more companies have a mandate of disrupting and upending the “old order.” They’ve succeeded in effecting the “biggest change in the American workforce in over a century,” according to former Secretary of Labor, Robert Reich. But this new wave of technology companies is funded and steered by very old-school venture capitalists. In What’s Yours Is Mine, technologist Tom Slee argues that the so-called sharing economy damages development, extends harsh free-market practices into previously protected areas of our lives, and presents the opportunity for a few people to make fortunes by damaging communities and pushing vulnerable individuals to take on unsustainable risk.

Drawing on original empirical research, Slee shows that the friendly language of sharing, trust, and community masks a darker reality.

Tom Slee writes about technology, politics, and economics and is a leading critic of the sharing economy. He has a PhD in theoretical chemistry, a long career in the software industry, and his book No One Makes You Shop at Wal-Mart is a game-theoretical investigation of individual choice that has been used in university economics, philosophy, and sociology courses.

The Sharing Economy frames its critics as Luddites, bureaucrats, and rent-seekers, but Tom Slee is none of these. A thoughtful technologist, Slee paints a well-researched picture of companies that have built up massive market valuations by externalizing their costs and sidestepping regulations designed to protect consumers. This book is clear-eyed and important.

Drawn to Change
Graphic Histories of Working-Class Struggle
EDITED BY THE GRAPHIC HISTORY COLLECTIVE WITH PAUL BUHLE

CANADIAN LABOUR HISTORY and working-class struggles are brought to life in this anthology of nine short comics, each one accompanied by an informative preface. Each comic showcases the inspiring efforts and determination of working people who banded together with others to fight to change the world.

The history of working-class struggle is a fascinating story of conflict and coercion, of resistance and triumph. It has the drama of defeat mixed with the thrill of victory, though not always in equal measure. But, working-class history is not just interesting and exciting; it also contains important lessons for labour and social justice activists today. Illustrate! Educate! Organize!

The Graphic History Collective is a volunteer-run, not-for-profit arts collective focused on making social change through comics. Paul Buhle is a Senior Lecturer at Brown University, author or editor of 35 volumes including histories of radicalism in the United States and the Caribbean, studies of popular culture, and a series of graphic histories.

In illustrating how radical history in comics form can be used as a resource to restore hope for social change, this important comics collection will undoubtedly inspire new generations of informed activists.
– PAUL BUHLE, labour historian

This evocative collection of the struggles and achievements of labour organizing should inspire us to “dream of what might be” and to act to bring it about.

Revolutionary Mothering
Love on the Front Lines
EDITED BY ALEXIS PAULINE GUMBS, CHINA MARTENS, AND MAI’A WILLIAMS

INSPIRED BY the legacy of radical and queer black feminists, Revolutionary Mothering is a movement-shifting anthology that centres mothers of colour and marginalized mothers’ voices. In Revolutionary Mothering oppressed mothers activate a powerful vision of the future while navigating tangible concerns in the present, moving beyond individual narratives of choice towards collective solutions.

Alexis Pauline Gumbs was one of UTNE Reader’s 50 Visionaries Transforming the World in 2009. China Martens is the author of The Future Generation: The Zine-Book for Subculture Parents, Kids, Friends and Others. Mai’a Williams is creator/director of Water Studio, and co-create with artists and revolutionaries in Egypt.

Revolutionary Mothering: Love on the Front Lines is juicy, gutsy, vulnerable, and very brave. These women insist on having their children in a society that does not welcome them, in a world that is rapidly falling apart. A radical vision, many radical visions of how to mother in a time of resistance and of pain.

A Future Without Hate or Need
The Promise of the Jewish Left in Canada
ESTER REITER

DRIVEN FROM their homes in Russia, Poland, and Romania by pogroms and poverty, many Jews who came to Canada in the wave of immigration after the 1905 Russian revolution were committed radicals. A Future Without Hate or Need brings to life the rich and multi-layered lives of a dissident political community, their shared experiences and community-building cultural projects, as they attempted to weave together their ethnic particularity—their identity as Jews—with their internationalist class politics.

Ester Reiter is a professor emerita in the School of Gender, Sexuality and Women’s Studies, York University. The research for this book was adapted by director Ruth Howard of Jumblies Theatre for a play called Oy di Velt (Oh the World) first performed at Camp Naivelt and then remounted at Mayworks in 2009. Reiter is the author of Making Fast Food: From the Frying Pan to the Fryer.

Full of information and previously unavailable first-hand accounts of the Jewish left’s cultural life, A Future Without Hate or Need’s detail on camps, schules, publications, literature (prose & poetry), sporting associations, orchestras and the like is unrivaled, much of this drawn from Yiddish and oral sources both rich and previously untapped. The insights are many, and the act of recovery both significant and inspiring.

How can the modern family live an environmentally friendly lifestyle?

The Ultimate Guide to Green Parenting
ZION LIGHTS

THE ULTIMATE GUIDE to Green Parenting is the first book of its kind. Journalist, science writer, and mother Zion Lights has researched all those questions that beset new or expecting parents—not just about environmental issues but also on approaches to parenting. She focuses on the scientific evidence rather than on the latest fad or personal anecdote and the result is a book that will help you adjust your lifestyle in practical ways that work for you and your child.

From birth to nutrition and from diapers to travel, advice based on research and evidence can guide the way. And the good news is that going green will not only help to save the planet and help to protect your child’s health, it will also result in a happier and more fulfilling family life.

Zion brings together the latest peer-review science, looks at it practically and calmly, without being judgmental or preachy, simply helpful.
— NATALIE BENNETT, leader of the Green Party, UK

The Ultimate Guide to Green Parenting is a manifesto for environmentally conscious parents, with bar charts, graphs, and tables explaining how to green up your child’s education, diet, and emotional well-being.
— Anna Tyzack, The Telegraph

Zion Lights is a writer with a passion for science and the environment. She writes for and co-edits JUNO magazine and is a blogger for The Huffington Post and Green Living Ideas.
Rethinking Education
Whose knowledge is it anyway?
ADAM UNWIN AND JOHN YANDELL

WHAT IS KNOWLEDGE? Who decides what is important? Who owns it? These key questions are central themes in this accessible book that aims to change perceptions and the understanding of education. Using historical and contemporary examples the authors examine the motivations, conflicts, and contradictions in education. Breaking down the structures, forces, and technologies involved in education they chart an alternative approach.

Dr. Adam Unwin is Senior Lecturer in Business and Economics Education at University College London Institute of Education. His research interests include e-learning in teacher education, learning outside the classroom, and global perspectives in business and economics education.

John Yandell is Senior Lecturer in Education at University College London Institute of Education. He taught in inner London secondary schools for twenty years. His research interests include the ways in which literature is read in urban classrooms and the development of teacher identities.

These short books supply us with clear, well-written, and memorable analyses that cut to the chase.

Globalization
Buying and selling the world
WAYNE ELLWOOD

GLOBALIZATION has an ever-increasing effect on our lives. It has made the world smaller and brought us closer together yet it can also make us more vulnerable and divided. The deregulation of finance and banking and the crisis they led to is a devastating example of the knock-on effects of globalization.

This fully revised fourth edition reviews the history and complexities of globalization, examining the forces in play and whose interests they serve. And while the global exchange of people, products, plants, animals, technologies, and ideas intensifies the key question that Wayne Ellwood asks “how can globalization be a positive force for change?”

Wayne Ellwood is former co-editor of New Internationalist magazine and is the author of The No-Nonsense Guide to Degrowth and Sustainability.

The Money Crisis
How bankers grabbed our money—and how we can get it back
PETER STALKER

WHAT EXACTLY is money and what does it do? We might understand coins, notes, and gold bars but do we understand credit default swaps and sovereign wealth funds? In responding to these questions Peter Stalker exposes the flaws in the system that led to financial crisis.

He reveals that this is not just a banking crisis, it is a crisis of money. A combination of deregulation, incompetence, and greed create the conditions for boom and bust. This concise book provides an understanding of these factors and the strategies that can take them out of the equation, so that ordinary people can regain control of money.

Peter Stalker is a former co-editor of the New Internationalist magazine who now works as a consultant to a number of UN agencies. He is the author of The No-Nonsense Guide to International Migration.

International Development
Illusions and realities
MAGGIE BLACK

THE IDEA of reducing poverty and inequality and improving health, education, and job opportunities around the world is beyond criticism. Yet, the reality of development can often be confusion, contradiction, deceit, and corruption.

This fully updated third edition makes a major contribution to the ongoing debate about the effectiveness of aid and development. Drawing on a wide range of sources, from international studies to personal stories, Maggie Black brings objective analysis and valuable insights to all the key themes. And she presents a forceful argument for bringing the poor and marginalised into the heart of the process.

Maggie Black has worked as a consultant for UNICEF, Anti-Slavery International, and WaterAid. She has written for The Guardian, The Economist, and BBC World Service.

Renewable Energy
Cleaner, fairer ways to power the planet
DANNY CHIVERS

FEW PEOPLE DOUBT the threat of climate change and the urgent need to conquer fossil fuel addiction. But can renewable sources of energy ever be sufficient to provide modern societies with a decent quality of life? This book is clear. They can. And it outlines the strategies to break the barriers to a 100% renewable world.

Danny Chivers presents a compelling introduction to renewable technologies for non-technical readers (solar, wind, hydro, geothermal and ambient heat, wave and tidal, fuel crops, and energy from waste) and a roadmap to powering the world, not just sustainably, but democratically.

Danny Chivers is an environmental researcher advising NGOs on their carbon footprint. He is an activist in fossil fuel divestment campaigns, working with a number of groups including 350.org. He is a prominent performance poet and the author of The No-Nonsense Guide to Climate Change.

Joe Hill
The IWW & the Making of a Revolutionary Workingclass Counterculture
FRANKLIN ROSEMONT

JOE HILL (1877–1915) is the best-known figure in the heroic history of the Industrial Workers of the World (a.k.a. Wobblies). US labour’s most renowned martyr and celebrated songwriter, he is remembered above all for his songs in the Little Red Song Book: “The Preacher and the Slave” (“Pie in the Sky”), “Mr Block,” “There Is Power in a Union,” and many more that are still popular on picket lines today.

A monumental work that explores the issues that Joe Hill raised—capitalism, white supremacy, gender, religion, wilderness, law, prison, industrial unionism—and their enduring relevance and impact in the century since his death. Collected too is all of his art, plus scores of other illustrations featuring Hill-inspired art by IWWs from Ralph Chaplin to Carlos Cortez, as well as other labour artists.

Before his death in 2009, Franklin Rosemont wrote nearly thirty books, including T-Bone Slim: Juice is Stranger than Friction, From Bughouse Square to the Beat Generation, Selected Ravings of Slim Brundage, and Penelope: a Poem.
World Tribunal on Iraq
Making the Case Against War

MÜGE GÜRSÖY SÖKMEN, EDITOR
INTRODUCTIONS BY ARUNDHATI ROY AND RICHARD FALK

THE WORLD TRIBUNAL ON IRAQ (WTI) was a collective effort involving hundreds of people from all over the world, most of them never having met in person. Inspired by the Bertrand Russell Tribunal of the Vietnam War era, WTI aimed to record not only the crimes against the Iraqi people, but also crimes committed against humanity.

With contributions from over fifty internationally renowned experts, World Tribunal on Iraq examines every aspect of the war, from its legality, to the history of US and British military interventions in Iraq, to the role of international institutions and corporations in the occupation, to the use of torture, and to strategies of resistance.

Müge Gürsöy Sökmen is an editor, translator, and the cofounder of Metis Press. Indian novelist Arundhati Roy won the Booker Prize for her novel The God of Small Things. Richard Falk is professor emeritus of international law at Princeton University.

The attack on Iraq is an attack on justice, on liberty, on our safety, on our future, on us all. We, people of conscience, decided to stand up. We formed the World Tribunal on Iraq (WTI) to demand justice and a peaceful future. ...

Flight and Freedom
Stories of Escape to Canada
RATNA Omidvar AND DANA WAGNER

The global number of people currently displaced from their home country—more than 50 million—is higher than at any time since World War II. Yet in recent years Canada has deported, denied, and diverted countless refugees. Is Canada a safe haven for refugees or a closed door?

In Flight and Freedom, Ratna Omidvar and Dana Wagner present a collection of thirty astonishing interviews with refugees, their descendants, or their loved ones to document their extraordinary, and sometimes harrowing, journeys of flight. The stories span two centuries of refugee experiences in Canada: from the War of 1812—where an escaped slave and her infant daughter flee the United States to start a new life in Halifax—to the War in Afghanistan—where asylum seekers collide with state scrutiny and face the challenges of resettlement.

Ratna Omidvar was born in India and moved to Iran in 1975. In 1981 she and her family fled Iran and found a new home in Canada. Her own experiences of flight to freedom have been the foundation of her work. Ratna is the founding Executive Director of the Global Diversity Exchange, and both a Member of the Order of Canada and Order of Ontario. Dana Wagner is Senior Research Associate at the Global Diversity Exchange. She has written for The Atlantic, The Globe and Mail, The National Post, and The Huffington Post.

Taken together [these] stories serve to remind us that Canadian readiness to provide sanctuary to those under threat is not just a legal obligation. It is a measure of our collective humanity. We should not be found wanting.

– Harold Troper, University of Toronto, and co-author of None is Too Many

Deep Diversity
Overcoming Us vs. Them
SHAKIL CHOU DHURY

WHAT IF OUR INTERACTIONS with those different from us are strongly influenced by things happening below the radar of awareness, hidden even from ourselves? Deep Diversity explores this question and argues that “us vs. them” is an unfortunate but normal part of the human experience due to reasons of both nature and nurture.

To really work through issues of racial difference and foster greater levels of fairness and inclusion, argues Shakil Choudhury, requires an understanding of the human mind—its conscious and unconscious dimensions. Deep Diversity integrates Choudhury’s twenty years of experience with interviews with researchers in social neuroscience, implicit bias, psychology, and mindfulness. Using a compassionate but challenging approach, Choudhury helps readers identify their own bias and offers practical ways to break the “prejudice habits” we have all learned, in order to tackle systemic discrimination.

Shakil Choudhury is an award-winning educator and consultant with twenty years experience working with thousands of leaders across four continents on issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion. He is co-founder of Anima Leadership and lives in Toronto, where his children are teaching him about fatherhood.

This book will make you think hard and think better about what’s good for you, your organization and society at large.
– MAHZARIN R BANAJI, Richard Clarke Cabot Professor of Social Ethics, Department of Psychology, Harvard University

Disarming Conflict
Why Peace Cannot Be Won on the Battlefield
ERNIE REGEHR

WARS Fought OVER the past quarter century have been a spectacular failure. The overwhelming majority end in military stalemate and are settled at the negotiating table, with the grievances that led to the war still unresolved. In Disarming Conflict famed peace activist Ernie Regehr shows that force cannot simply over-ride or transcend the social, political, and economic realities of conflict.

War prevention, Regehr argues, is more successful when security policies address the conditions that most directly affect people’s lives and that are most instrumental in generating deep grievances and the despairing conclusion that there are no alternatives to the violence. Disarming Conflict sets out approaches, initiatives, and policies that steer away from the futility of fighting and promote non-military efforts towards “winning the peace.”

Ernie Regehr, O.C., is co-founder of Project Ploughshares, one of Canada’s premier peace and security NGOs. He has served as an NGO representative and expert advisor on numerous Government of Canada delegations to multilateral disarmament forums, including Review Conferences of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and UN Conferences on Small Arms. He is the author and editor of a number of books and articles.

Regehr’s book is a meticulously researched call to disarm and proves why he is Canada’s preeminent thinker on conflict issues, challenging readers and policy-makers to question the effectiveness of our rising militarism. I will be quoting liberally from Disarming Conflict for years to come.

Cyber-Proletariat
Global Labour in the Digital Vortex

NICK DYER-WITHEFORD

Cyber-Proletariat portrays the struggles of workers along the entire global capitalist commodity chain. ... An epic story.
– DOROTHY KIDD, Professor and Chair, Department of Media Studies, University of San Francisco

FROM THE COLTAN MINES in the Congo, to electronics factories in China, to devastated Detroit neighbourhoods, Cyber-Proletariat shows us the dark-side of the information revolution through an unsparing analysis of class power and computerization.

Dyer-Witheford investigates how technology facilitates growing polarization between wealthy elites and precarious workers. He reveals the class domination behind everything from expanding online surveillance to intensifying robotization. At the same time, he looks at possibilities for information technology within radical movements.

Cyber-Proletariat is an indispensable resource for social theorists and hacktivists alike and essential reading for anyone who wants to understand how Silicon Valley shapes the way we live today.

Nick Dyer-Witheford is Associate Professor in the Faculty of Information and Media Studies at the University of Western Ontario. He is the author of Cyber-Marx: Cycles and Circuits of Struggle in High-Technology Capitalism.

Nick Dyer-Witheford follows up his classic Cyber-Marx with a synoptic view of the relationship between contemporary global workers, from the Turkish miners killed in a shaft collapse to the highly paid “hackers” in Silicon Valley. Rich in detail, it is written with eloquence and passion.

A fascinating look at working-class life in early-twentieth-century Canada

Lunch-Bucket Lives
Remaking the Workers’ City
CRAIG HERON

LUNCH-BUCKET LIVES takes the reader on a bumpy ride through the history of Hamilton’s working people from the 1890s to the 1930s. It ambles along city streets, peers through kitchen doors and factory windows, marches up the steps of churches and fraternal halls, slips into saloons and dance halls, pauses to hear political speeches, and, above all, listens for the stories of men, women, youths, and children from families where people relied mainly on wages to survive.

Heron takes wage-earning as a central element in working-class life, but also looks beyond the workplace into the households and neighbourhoods—settlement patterns and housing, marriage, child care, domestic labour, public health, schooling, charity and social work, popular culture, gender identities, ethnicity and ethnic conflict, and politics in various forms—presenting a comprehensive view of working-class life in the first half of the twentieth century.

Craig Heron is a professor of history at York University. He is one of Canada’s leading labour historians and is the author of numerous works on Canadian history including The Workers Festival: A History of Labour Day in Canada, and Booze: A Distilled History.

With an eloquence and liveliness unique among Canadian social historians, Heron integrates gender, class, ethnicity, race and ideology in an original and sophisticated narrative. The polished product of a half-century of devoted research and analysis, Lunch-Bucket Lives is, quite simply, a masterpiece.” – IAN McKAY, Wilson Chair of Canadian History, McMaster University

An inside look at the most impressive student protest in Canadian history

Translated from the 2014 Governor General’s Literary Award winner for non-fiction, Tenir tête

In Defiance
GABRIEL NADEAU-DUBOIS, TRANSLATED BY LAZER LEDERHENDLER
FOREWORD BY NAOMI KLEIN

ON FEBRUARY 7, 2012, as students in Quebec prepared to vote to go on strike, Gabriel Nadeau-Dubois gave a rousing speech: “What you do today will be remembered. The decision you make will tell future generations who we were. And you already know what is being said today about our generation. That we are the generation of comfort and indifference, the generation of cash and iPods; that we are individualists, egoists; that we don’t care about anything, except our navels and our gadgets. Aren’t you tired of hearing this? Well, I am. Luckily, today we have a chance to prove that it’s not true, that it has never been true.”

The “Maple Spring” saw more than 300,000 students across Quebec protest a tuition fee hike by striking from their classes. Nadeau-Dubois takes readers step-by-step through the strike, recounting the confrontations with journalists, ministers, judges, and police. Along the way he exposes the moral and intellectual poverty of the Quebec elite and celebrates the remarkable energy of the students who opposed the mercenary attitude of the austerity agenda.

Gabriel Nadeau-Dubois was the lead spokesperson for CLASSE, one of the more vocal student bodies that participated in the 2012 student strikes that swept Quebec. He is currently working on a Masters in Sociology and is a regular panelist on Radio-Canada.

In Defiance is not only a brilliant analyses of the Maple Spring in Quebec, it is also a vibrant, poetic, and insightful call for a new kind of collective politics based on a refusal of the poisonous demands of the neoliberal state. More than a manifesto, In Defiance is a clarion call for a new generation of young people who refuse to be left out of the discourse of democracy.

The history and hopes of Indigenous struggles

Unsettling Canada
A National Wake-Up Call

ARTHUR MANUEL AND GRAND CHIEF RONALD M. DERRICKSON
FOREWORD BY NAOMI KLEIN

UNSETTLING CANADA is built on a unique collaboration between two First Nations leaders, Arthur Manuel and Grand Chief Ron Derrickson. Both men have served as chiefs of their bands in the B.C. interior and both have gone on to establish important national and international reputations. But the differences between them are in many ways even more interesting. Arthur Manuel is one of the most forceful advocates for Aboriginal title and rights in Canada and comes from the activist wing of the movement. Grand Chief Ron Derrickson is one of the most successful Indigenous businessmen in the country.

Together the Secwepemc activist intellectual and the Syilx (Okanagan) businessman bring a fresh perspective and new ideas to Canada’s most glaring piece of unfinished business: the place of Indigenous peoples within the country’s political and economic space. The story is told through Arthur’s voice but he traces both of their individual struggles against the colonialist and often racist structures that have been erected to keep Indigenous peoples in their place in Canada.

In the final chapters and in the Grand Chief’s afterword, they not only set out a plan for a new sustainable Indigenous economy, but lay out a roadmap for getting there.

A breathtakingly beautiful story of Indigenous resistance, strength, and movement building. Unsettling Canada echoes the power of George Manuel’s The Fourth World, centering the heart of the narrative deep inside a kind of Indigenous intelligence rarely shared outside our communities. This is the critical conversation that Canada and Indigenous peoples must have because it is centred on land, and, therefore, it is one of the most important books on Indigenous politics I’ve ever read.

Recalibrating our understanding of Canada’s war history

Worth Fighting For
Canada’s Tradition of War Resistance from 1812 to the War on Terror
EDITED BY LARA CAMPBELL, MICHAEL DAWSON, AND CATHERINE GIDNEY

HISTORIANS, VETERANS, museums, and public education campaigns have all documented and commemorated the experience of Canadians in times of war. But Canada also has a long, rich, and important historical tradition of resistance to both war and militarization. This collection brings together the work of sixteen scholars on the history of war resistance. Together they explore resistance to specific wars (including the South African War, the First and Second World Wars, and Vietnam), the ideology and nature of resistance (national, ethical, political, spiritual), and organized activism against militarization (such as cadet training, the Cold War, and nuclear arms).

As the federal government continues to support the commemoration and celebration of Canada’s participation in past wars, this collection offers a timely response that explores the complexity of Canada’s position in times of war and the role of social movements in challenging the militarization of Canadian society.

Lara Campbell is Associate Professor of Gender, Sexuality, and Women’s Studies at Simon Fraser University. Michael Dawson is Professor of History at St. Thomas University. Catherine Gidney is an adjunct professor in the History Department at St. Thomas University.

Whether you are a lifelong peace activist or an enthusiast for a robust and muscular Canadian military, Worth Fighting For is worth your time. The “warrior nation” debates are likely to continue in the foreseeable future, and the authors and editors of this fascinating book have done us all a favour by providing intelligent and well-written briefing papers on its historical background.

Nothing to Lose but Our Fear
Resistance in Dangerous Times

FIONA JEFFRIES IN CONVERSATION WITH MARCUS REDIKER, SILVIA FEDERICI, DAVID HARVEY, NANDITA SHARMA, JOHN HOLLOWAY, LYDIA CACHO, SANDRA MORAN, GUSTAVO ESTEVA, AND WENDY MENDEZ

AS THE EGYPTIAN revolution gained momentum in the winter of 2011, a common refrain echoed across Cairo’s Tahrir Square: “The wall of fear came down!” Mass protests against fear and authoritarianism have also rumbled across the aggrieved streets and plazas of Tunis, Athens, Madrid, New York City, Istanbul, Rio de Janeiro, Mexico City, Delhi, and beyond. While the scale of these new uprisings may be unprecedented, the refusal of fear is not unique to our time.

Nothing to Lose but Our Fear brings together an international group of scholars and activists and asks them how can we think critically and act productively in a world awash in fear. Their conversations with Fiona Jeffries provoke consideration of the often hidden histories of people’s emancipatory practices and offer reflections that can help us understand the conjuncture of systemic fear and resistance.

Fiona Jeffries holds a PhD in Communication Studies and did post-doctoral studies at the Center for Place, Culture and Politics at the City University of New York. She has been involved in numerous alternative media and grassroots social justice projects. She teaches in the Human Rights program at Carlton University and is a Visiting Scholar at the Centre for Policy Studies on Culture and Communities at Simon Fraser University.

Multi-faceted, insightful, global: Fiona Jeffries’ conversations with some of our best contemporary theorists, activists, historians (and frequently all three at once) confront fear head-on and come out fighting. In-depth conversations tackle some of the thorniest topics confronting activists and theorists today: how best to understand the state? How best to fight against it? What types of global thinking and resistance can help us to think—and act—otherwise.

When the political is personal

Shameless
The Fight for Adoption Disclosure and the Search for My Son
MARILYN CHURLEY

Part memoir, part activist’s handbook, part feminist analysis of 1960s societal mores, Churley’s book is wholly wonderful.
– CATHARINE PORTER, columnist Toronto Star

IN THE LATE 1960s, at the age of eighteen and living far from home amidst the thriving counterculture of Ottawa, Marilyn Churley got pregnant. Like thousands of other women of the time she kept the event a secret. Faced with few options, she gave the baby up for adoption.

Over twenty years later, as the Ontario NDP government’s minister responsible for all birth, death, and adoption records, including those of her own child, Churley found herself in a surprising and powerful position—fully engaged in the long and difficult battle to reform adoption disclosure laws and find her son.

Both a personal and political story, Shameless is a powerful memoir about a mother’s struggle with loss, love, secrets, and lies—and an adoption system shrouded in shame.

Marilyn Churley is a former Toronto City Councillor and former Member of Provincial Parliament. She has served as the Deputy Leader of the Ontario New Democratic Party and was the Ontario Legislature’s first female Deputy Speaker. She has been referred to as the mother of adoption disclosure reform in Ontario.

The million-plus members of Ontario’s adoption community owe a debt of thanks to Marilyn Churley. Without her integrity, and her willingness to stand up and be counted among us, we might still be waiting for access to our own records. Shameless is Churley’s modest account of the impact her reunion and her advocacy in the Ontario Legislature played in redressing the wrongs imposed by sealed records.

Thanks

Thanks to all the readers, authors, instructors, librarians, booksellers, and suppliers whose support has carried us into our thirty-ninth year!

Thanks in particular to the talented editors and designers who turn manuscripts into books, and to the Canadian printers who manufacture them.

We’re grateful to Brunswick Books for their efforts on our behalf.

Between the Lines gratefully acknowledges assistance for its publishing activities from the Canada Council for the Arts, the Ontario Arts Council, the Government of Ontario through the Ontario Book Publishers Tax Credit Program and through the Ontario Book Initiative, the Ontario Media Development Corporation, and the Government of Canada through the Canada Book Fund.

We acknowledge support from the Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences, through the Awards to Scholarly Publications Program, using funds provided by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

We also acknowledge the financial support of the Government of Canada, through the National Translation Program for Book Publishing, for our translation activities.

Want to write Between the Lines?

We’re always looking for new manuscripts from sharp minds who want to challenge the mainstream.

Our submission guidelines are available on our website at www.btlbooks.com
